

What is your perspective or depiction of the world around you? What do you observe in your daily life, and what constitutes your reality? Kindly describe your personal experiences.

This image shows a full page of blank, lined paper. It features approximately 20 evenly spaced horizontal black lines across its entire width, typical of notebook or composition paper. The lines are uniform in thickness and spacing, providing a guide for writing. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the page.

When examining your own character, what is your primary perspective? Do you tend to focus on people, opportunities, and new ideas? Are you interested in organizing and structuring things, or do you enjoy exploring understanding and knowledge? Or perhaps, do you possess a clear vision for the future? Please explain.

[illegible]

In part 3.2 you explored the perspectives you use. Are these perspectives changing when you are in different roles, or do they stand firm? Think about roles like being a partner, a parent, a friend, or a colleague. Please elaborate.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.